DB's Dabbings: Anybody get to Bible Class early this morning? Or accidentally come to Bible Class today? If not, you should be refreshed and ready to go this morning with that extra hour of sleep last night!

I know there is some sadness in hearing that Jacob and Savanna are moving, but wasn't it exciting to hear about their mission plans for a bi-lingual church plant in Oklahoma City? The outreach principles for the work are solid and the area they are moving to is a great site to develop what they envision. There is no doubt they have approached this with much prayer and that they are answering a call from God. It has been an absolute joy to work with both of them. Jacob has matured as a Christian young man and minister of the Gospel, and I am so proud of him. He married a terrific young lady who is both a partner for life and ministry. They are going to do great things together for the Lord advancing the Kingdom of God!

Jacob will leave a big hole to fill, but we are working hard on developing a strategy to move forward in the work and several of you have stepped up to say you are willing to help. There is such a great spirit of unity and service in this church. "Always give yourselves fully to the work of the Lord, because you know that your labor in the Lord is not in vain." (1 Cor. 15:58)
